ABOUT THE CHATTANOOGA DESIGN STUDIO

The Chattanooga Design Studio is an independent, non-profit community resource that promotes excellence in urban design through education, facilitation, and collaboration. The internship program connects the Studio's focus on education to young professionals, students and universities with the goal of infusing urban thinkers into Chattanooga. The program equally inspires and expands the design process of the Studio staff, is central to the Studio's legacy and remains a substantial feature of our work.

ABOUT THE POSITION

Interns assist Design Studio staff with design and planning projects located within Chattanooga's dynamic urban core. Current projects respond to challenges in the urban environment and include asset mapping, community engagement, redevelopment proposals, and streetscape studies. Duties may include: preparing studies and visual materials in support of the design process; surveying and documenting field conditions and community preferences; and preparing for and participating in community meetings. The preference is for individuals with a background in architecture, urban design, planning, landscape architecture and/or graphic design.
